Streaming Program For Mac

Choosing between live streaming software can be a challenge. There are a lot of different options available, with a confusing array of features and pricing structures. But with its great performance, wide video and audio format support, and $0 price tag, it will likely beat out any competition that may someday come along. If you're diving into the world of live streaming for the first time, you're eventually going to have to decide what software to use. StreamToMe, our top choice for streaming and live converting video on Mac OS X, is an easy choice for the category because it is, essentially, the only choice.
